

RANDOLPH IS EXCHANGE AFFILIATE

Affiliation of the Randolph Marketing company packing house in Porterville with the Tulare County Fruit Exchange was announced jointly this week by Omer Avery and Stanley F. Trueblood, managers of the respective organizations. The Tulare County Fruit Exchange is affiliated with Sunkist Growers, California's leading citrus marketing cooperative.

"We are very glad to have the Randolph Marketing company with us in our cooperative marketing of the California-Arizona citrus crop," Mr. Trueblood stated. "Mr. Avery packs fine fruit which has won an enviable position in the consuming market."

The Randolph Marketing company has been established in Porterville since March 1916. Last year the organization marketed 304 cars of citrus fruit under the brand name of Golden Quality (Old Faithful).

In commenting on affiliation with Sunkist and the Tulare County Fruit Exchange, Mr. Avery stated, "In these days of strong competition and particularly since the termination of the federal marketing agreement, I believe that complete cooperation among citrus shippers is of paramount importance. The Tulare County Fruit Exchange and Sunkist Growers offer the best opportunity for effective effort."

Citrus Prorate Taken Off As Of Last Saturday

The old cry, "We can't sell our oranges because of the prorate" will be heard no more, since, as of last Saturday, March 8, the California-Arizona Orange Marketing order was terminated by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Now, speculation centers around possible new cries concerning marketing, since the question of prorate has been highly controversial.

The marketing order was killed by a recent referendum vote, the results of which were announced last week. In commenting on the situation, Paul S. Armstrong, general manager of Sunkist Growers, said:

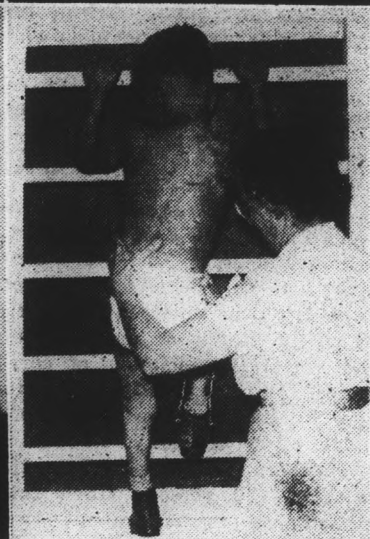

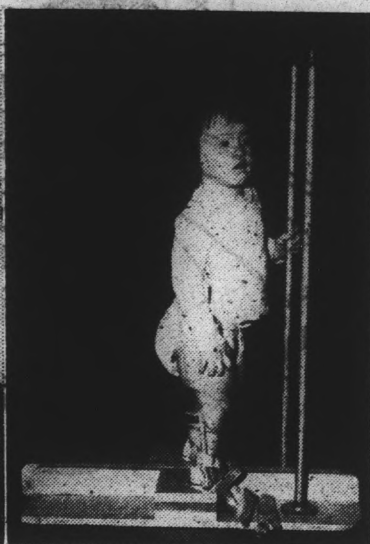

"I am sorry to see the termination of the Orange Marketing order which has served the orange growers of California and Arizona well since first instituted in 1934. We worked diligently to secure for the industry the advantages of orderly marketing which the new legislation then offered and have consistently supported it through the years.

"While the industry will lose some of the manifest benefits of this program, Sunkist Growers is well equipped to operate effectively throughout its widespread marketing facilities."

RAIN, SNOW BRING FLOOD SPECULATION

Continued rain and snow this week brought considerable speculation concerning possibility of spring floods along the Tule river — not immediate floods but high water perhaps later if a warm rain hits the record Sierra snow pack.

Rain and hail in the valley and snow in the mountains down to around the 2,000 foot level, has been the order of things during the past week and more of the same is predicted for tonight and CHILDREN LIKE these might be invalids for life, if it were not for work and vision of American Association of University Women in Porterville who three years ago set up a special training and correctional school on the Olive street school grounds in Porterville. The little fellow, upper left, was unable to stand alone when he first started treatment, now he walks on "skis" with heavy weights to strengthen his legs; little girl, upper right, probably never would have walked if the type of treatment she is receiving in Porterville had not been available; the girl, lower left, on a special tricycle, is strengthening both leg and arm on her right side so that she can walk normally; the boy on the stall bar, shown with Mrs. Edna E. Farris, registered physical therapist at the school, is building back use of legs and arms, by work on the bars. Funds to operate this school come from the Tulare County Crippled Children's society, that is now raising money through its annual Easter Seal drive.

EASTER SEAL SALE FUNDS USED IN SPECIAL PORTERVILLE SCHOOL FOR THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED

New lives for physically handicapped children are being modeled at Porterville's therapy center operated by the Porterville branch of the American Association of University Women, assisted by many other organizations and individuals of the community and with up to $100 per month provided toward the salary of a physical therapist provided through the Tulare County Crippled Children's society.

Without the type of training and treatment offered by this center, located on the Olive street school grounds, many children suffering the effects of cerebral palsy, polio, rheumatic arthritis, posture defects, club feet, scoliosis, brachial plexus injury, might be hopeless invalids for life. But because of this therapy center, these same children will become normal, or nearly normal human beings.

Registered physical therapist at the center is Mrs. Edna E. Farris, who talks with satisfaction and with pride of the work that is being done. She tells of the Spina Bifida case, a little girl whose possibilities of a normal life at the time of birth were dark indeed. This child might never have walked, but through training at the Porterville school, she is now able to walk on specially constructed "skis" and her progress indicates that she will soon be walking like any other child.

Then there is the little boy, a victim of cerebral palsy, who was so weak when he first came to the center that he had to be carried in by his mother. Now he walks on skis with special weights attached and his body is being trained and built toward normalcy.

During the Strathmore show, champion steer and champion hog will be judged. A special feature will be a greased pig contest for eighth grade boys of Sunnyside and Strathmore elementary schools, the winner to receive a registered gilt upon entering the Strathmore high school agricultural department.

The Strathmore band will be on hand and honor will be paid to a pioneer resident of the Strathmore community.

Special opening ceremonies are being planned and trophies for the two champion animals will be presented by the Strathmore chamber of commerce. The public is invited to attend the show.

Eighteen head of livestock will be exhibited by members of the Ducor 4-H club at the Grand National Junior Livestock Exposition at San Francisco's Cow Palace April 5-10, with all stock shown to be sold.

Johnny Dennis is entering a pen of five Hereford steers; Sandra Farnsworth, Arlin Morris and Bob Fiser, one Hereford steer each; Walter Hunsaker, a pen of five Shorthorn steers; Donald Hunsaker, one Shorthorn steer and Betty Muller, three cross-bred lambs.

The 4-H exhibitors will be accompanied to San Francisco by Louie Muller, a club leader, in addition to several parents.

In special events at the Cow Palace, Arlin Morris has entered calf riding competition; Donald Hunsaker the greased pig contest and Walter Hunsaker, the calf scramble. Arlin Morris is showing a steer that he won in last year's calf scramble at the junior show.

INDUSTRIAL WORK PLANNED IN JUNE

An industrial plant to process basic ingredients used in candies, jellies and jams will start construction in Porterville about June 1, it was reported this week by Andy Morrison, president of the Porterville chamber of commerce, following a trip by air to New York city to confer with officials of the company.

The plant will employ a maximum of 400 persons when full capacity is reached about two years after start of operation, it is stated. Construction had been originally announced for February of this year, however, delays in securing materials is said to be responsible for the later starting date.

FINS FOR FEATHERS

By Phil The Forester

Fresno was the locale of numerous sportsmen, fish, game and forestry meetings last weekend. The Saturday fish and game commission meeting attracted a full house to standing room only. One of the commissioners was overheard to say, "Never had a crowd like this at a San Francisco or Los Angeles meeting."

Sportsmen attending the entire session heard practically the entire field of fishing and hunting covered in some manner or the other.

Progress report was given on a proposed new identification card to which would be affixed a fishing or hunting stamp, or both. Also the duck stamp or any other special stamp that may be used in the future. When and if the idea is adopted it will be more convenient for the sportsmen, more useful to the game warden and considerably cheaper to produce and distribute.

STATE OWNED LAND USE BY DOGS

State owned Grizzly Island Waterfowl Management area was approved for field trial and dog training use on Saturdays and Sundays during March, September and the first half of October.

Considerable time was devoted to the proposed City of Los Angeles power dams on the Kings river. State Fish Manager Elden Vestal related the reasons about 60 miles of excellent trout fish-

California Farmers Get Lower Prices For Home Products

California producers received lower average prices for many farm products in mid-February as compared to mid-January.

Prices for cotton lint, beef cattle and eggs dropped sharply during the month. Smaller declines were registered in the prices received for some other principal commodities including wheat, dried beans, potatoes, hogs, lambs and wool.

The decreases were partially offset by advances in the prices for hay, rice, oranges, grapefruit and milk. Prices for turkeys and milk cows also rose slightly during the month.

Prices paid by producers for livestock and poultry feeds in mid-February were generally unchanged or lower than a month earlier.

Early cantaloupe plantings in Imperial valley are estimated at 6,500 acres.

ing would be threatened. Game Manager Dave Sellack stated the Kings drainage deer herd would also be placed in jeopardy by the loss of valuable winter and summer feed ranges and fawning areas. It was explained how thousands of people would lose ideal camping and recreational areas. The commission opposed the project.

ATTENTION TO CATFISH

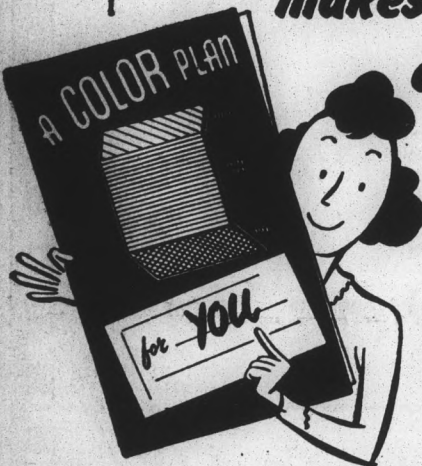

With the use of new revenue from federal excise tax on fishing equipment the commission approved three projects of special interest to fishermen, (1) a study of the catfish fishery of California (2) Experimental backcountry fish management (3) north-coastal stream restoration.

Of interest to upland game bird hunters was the presentation of a new policy for the operation of state pheasant farms and liberation of birds. The proposal would reduce the entire program considerably. The subject was left for further study and action at the next meeting to be held in Alameda on May 9. In the meantime organized sportsmen are being contacted for their thoughts on the matter.

Records reveal that 107,697 pheasants were raised and released in California last year at a cost of about one third million dollars. The hunter's harvest of these same birds as indicated by leg band returns was 15,620. Although possibly twice as many bands were not turned in by "we should worry" hunters, the inability of the sportsmen to harvest a larger percentage of the expensive crop of big game birds is an important factor of concern and might of had a little something to do with the legislative idea of raising the cost of hunting license.

Last year Fresno county was stocked with 4,495 pheasants and hunters bagged 185 while Tulare received 5,389 birds of which 212 were taken.

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Never let it be said that the Federal Trade Commission lacks thoroughness in little things, even if seemingly negligent on anti-trust matters.

The long FTC arm reached to the little village of Stanton, Orange County, California, to deal with a serious crisis.

Perhaps through this stern action, FTC has saved the nation from a danger that probably 150 million Americans never realized existed.

C. W. Harder

A man named Earl Wilson has a small rabbitry in Stanton. It is a small rabbitry because all rabbitries are small. So far, no big rabbit combines, or rabbit monopolies have been formed. The rabbit business is left pretty much to small enterprisers.

And probably, because there is this lack of monopoly practice in rabbitries, the industry fell under suspicion.

From enthusiasm, or perhaps from actual experience, Wilson had been claiming that Angora rabbits can be raised easily and cheaply. The FTC took a stern stand to the contrary, and Wilson has now agreed to quit saying that rabbits can be raised easily and cheaply.

It is not known how the FTC reached such a world-shaking conclusion. It is felt perhaps FTC has staff people who can talk to rabbits, and they interviewed rabbits who protested strongly any claim of this nature being made on their behalf.

The entire matter could be laughed off as ridiculous. It could be charged off as just more monkeyshines, or, rabbitshines, with the taxpayers money. But it is tragic because the

©National Federation of Independent Business

FTC is supposed to be protecting American independent business from monopolies growing stronger illegally every day.

The last FTC activity report covers the month of June, 1951.

This report shows at the start of the month, the agency had 95 cases of alleged violations of anti-trust laws carried over, and received 178 more cases during the month. Yet during the month, the FTC only closed 22 cases.

Obviously, officials spending a great deal of time chasing rabbits to study their reproductive and dietary habits, have little time left to enforce laws that keep small businessmen from being driven out of business.

In California, wild rabbits are a serious pest to farmers. So it can be assumed that while investigating, FTC officials also engaged in wild rabbit chases.

In Washington, FTC claims manpower is needed to vigorously enforce the anti-trust laws.

But a special report of the Joint Congressional Committee on Reduction of Non-essential Federal Expenditures finds that in May the FTC received pay increases averaging $50.83 per month per person, and in June 70 more people were added to the staff.

Yet the report of FTC activity for June shows far less than 10% of the cases on file in which violations of the anti-trust laws are involved were handled.

It is on the basis of such records as this that the Senate Small Business Committee headed by Sen. John Sparkman (D. Ala.) is launching an investigation as to just why the nation's anti-trust laws are not being enforced. And with the thoroughness with which this committee probes, it is a certainty it will produce facts, not rabbits.

Monache Sausages

By

LORETTA and ROLLA BISHOP

Like good things to eat? Bet you do because everyone does, and speaking of good things, did you ever try Italian Style California Pinto Beans? We mean, of course, have you ever tried them with Monache Sausage? If not, look at this:

Take 1 pound Monache Pork sausage, 1 medium-sized onion, 1 cup tomato juice, 1/2 teaspoon black pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 bay leaf, 1 teaspoon paprika, 3 cups cooked California pinto beans and 1/2 cup grated American cheese.

Cut up and fry until brown, onions and sausage. Add tomato juice, pepper, salt, bay leaf and paprika; simmer gently 15 minutes. Pour pinto beans over mixture. Cook slowly for 10 more minutes. Pour off excess grease if desired. Serve with grated American cheese, sprinkled over the top.

That's No. 1 for this week; here's No. 2, a Sausage Loaf: Take 1 1/2 pounds of Monache Pork sausage, 1 1/2 cups bread and cracker crumbs, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 2 tablespoons tomato catsup, 2 tablespoons horse radish, 1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 egg slightly beaten and 1/2 cup milk.

Mix sausage and crumbs. Add onion, catsup, horse radish, mustard and egg. Moisten with milk. Shape into loaf and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about one hour. Serves six.

We've tried both these recipes out here at Monache Farm and we think they're awfully good. That's why we're passing them along. If you have a favorite recipe in which you have used Monache sausage, or any other Monache pork product, we'd sure like to have you pass it along to us. Sort of a trade, maybe you'd call it.

Where do you get Monache sausage and pork products? JUST ONE PLACE. That's out here at Monache Farm, Mulberry and Prospect, or you can telephone 168-W, and we'll deliver to your door in Porterville on Fridays and Tuesdays. And we really would like to hear whether you like our recipes. Give us a call now, won't you?

NEW ALFALFA SEED PROMISES MORE PRODUCTION

By Ralph L. Worrell
Farm Advisor

Alfalfa growers who are interested in producing high quality hay for more than just two or three years are urged to plant seed of the new California Common 49.

This is the new strain of the old common Chilean alfalfa, which has been selected and improved for resistance to alfalfa dwarf disease. Dwarf is the worst disease of alfalfa in the southern San Joaquin valley, and is the main reason why fields die out in three or four years instead of remaining in production for many years more as they used to.

This dwarf resistant seed should keep alfalfa fields in good production for at least several years longer. Seed of California Common 49 will cost a few cents more a pound since it is new.
However, results to the farmer in hay production will make it a valuable investment.

Swimming Pool Group Moves Ahead

Interest in a community swim-

the southeastern Tulare county area, revived at a meeting of in-night, continues to grow this week, with Mrs. Marcus Jones named chairman of a steering man; Howard Beard, secretary, and Murry Tanner, treasurer. Directors are: Dr. John Loyd, Mrs.

Steering committee members state that a larger committee is now being selected and that another executive meeting will be held March 25 to consider chairmen for publicity, public relations, ways and means, construction and other special groups.

Next general meeting is schednot considered serious.

It appears that Frank Thompson was hauling some lumber and when about a mile from Plano, met the boy, who unknown to Thompson, tried to ride on a brake. He slipped and was dragged a considerable distance by his clothes, but they finally gave way, the wheel passed over the boy's neck and curiously enough did him no internal injury except bruising him up. It did not do the wheel any harm either.

Rake-away

Front mounting permits raking without driving tractor over loose hay first, also allows turns as short as your tractor turns.

Individual wheel suspension makes raking action gentle and gives flexible raking contact with the ground.

Solid wheels afford greater efficiency in raking against the wind. Wheels are "ground driven" eliminating unnecessary gears and chains. Mechanical lift for travel position is easy to operate and is conveniently located near tractor seat.

All around simple design keeps down maintenance costs. Rake-away attachments to fit your tractor are available.

Only 49c Of Retail Dollar To Farmers

The farmer's share of the consumer's food dollar is declining, according to the U.S. department of agriculture's bureau of agricultural economics. In January, BAE reports, it was 49 cents compared with 50 cents in January a year ago.

During most months in 1951 the cost of marketing farm foods, wages, transportation rates and other such marketing costs, showed an increase. Since farm prices are not expected to increase significantly this year, and marketing costs are expected to continue upward, farmers may receive a slightly smaller share of the consumer's food dollar than they did in 1951.

VALLEY FARMERS SPEND MILLION ON LABOR CAMPS

San Joaquin valley farmers spent a million dollars for additional new farm labor housing during the year ending September 1, 1951 according to the chief of the state's division of housing M. J. McDonough. This represents nearly 50 percent of all of the money spent by farmers for farm housing in the whole state of California for the same year. Elsewhere in California $1,290,000 was spent.

Increases in bathing and sewage facilities in existing camps were also noted by McDonough who said that during the previous year 22 percent of the camps had no bathing facilities and the same percentage had no sewage facilities. For the year ending last September the percentages had been reduced to eight and nine percent respectively.

TELEVISION GETS BETTER AND BETTER AS SETS DESIGNED TO MEET LOCAL CONDITIONS

TELEVISION GETS better and better in the southeastern Tulare county area because sets are getting better and better, and keeping right up with the rapid advancements are Bob and Dorothy Yount at BOB'S RADIO-TELEVISION at 301 South Main in Porterville.

As BOB explains it, sets are now being specially designed for "fringe" area reception of the type we have in Tulare county, and such firms as Packard-Bell, Zenith and Hoffman now turn out television units that do a really good job in this area. (Of course, BOB'S RADIO-TELEVISION handles these major, nationally advertised makes.)

PRICES RANGE from $229, up, and while on the subject of prices, anyone buying a television set for use in this area should be a little careful about the so-called "bargain" sets advertised in the metropolitan districts, since sets that work well in Los Angeles, let's say, simply do not have the stuff to bring in a picture in Tulare county. AND THEN there is the matter of "fair trade" prices. Legitimate dealers sell major-company television receivers for the same price anywhere you might buy, and the advertised "cheap" receivers are usually that — cheap and not workable in the San Joaquin valley where signals are weak at best.

ALL OF which adds up to the fact that if you want good television reception (and if television is not good, you might as well not have it,) your best bet is to go to a local shop, BOB'S RADIO-TELEVISION, for instance, where the people in charge are familiar with local conditions, and with receivers that will work under these conditions.

BOB AND DOROTHY, in addition to handling major television lines, have the most modern testing equipment available, including a portable aerial, that they will gladly bring to your home in order to show you exactly what you can expect if you buy a television set. There's no guess work about it; you actually see before you buy.

INCIDENTALLY, THE Younts have been in the radio sales and repair business in Porterville for eight years and just three years ago this week they sold the first television set in Porterville. Since that first sales, many improvements in television receiving sets and aerials have been made and the Younts have kept right up with the latest. And as new improvements are made they will continue to keep right along with the best.

We Only Heard

By BILL RODGERS

CHARLEY DEACON gets our man-of-the-week vote by virtue of having given his 20th pint of blood last Monday at the Red Cross Blood bank in Porterville. That's two and one-half gallons, when you stop to think about it, and two and one-half gallons of blood is considerable. But Charley plans to keep right on giving; says he gets a lot of satisfaction out of the knowledge that his blood, someplace in the world, maybe Korea, has no doubt saved American lives. . . . Giving of blood requires so little in the way of effort, time and inconvenience, yet accomplishes so much. We could stand a few more like Charley Deacon, who makes it a point to get the job done rather than to think of excuses for not being available.

SEEMS THAT some of the boys were having a couple in one of Porterville's oldtime saloons when the conversation turned to teams. At that time Dick White was more than proud of his outfit that was hauling lumber from the mountains into Porterville and he mentioned that his 10 horses could turn in the middle of Main street. Story is that $50 immediately appeared to the contrary and the bets were on. When Sandy Woods, driving for White, came down Putnam avenue with the 10-horse team trailing three lumber wagons, he was told of the bets and instructed by White to show the boys. Woods made the first attempt at Mill and Main but the lead horses got into the intersection and the opposition said no go. So he tried again at Putnam and Main and a lead horse stepped on the sidewalk. Also no go. Now it seems that Woods had been driving all day and ready to get along and unload. The technicalities were only prolonging the exhibition, so he drove in front of Porter Putnam's store, swung his team around and made it without a horse setting foot on the boards called sidewalks in those days, although the lead horses practically skidded on their haunches to do it. . . . And now-a-days we see people get into trouble trying to turn a car around in a city block.

IN THE this and that department we might mention that someone has figured out that the average American pays $170 per year for unnecessary accidents. Which also brings up a point: Is there such a thing as a necessary accident? . . . Suggest that you read "We The People" in this issue of The Farm Tribune. . . . What's the most popular spice in America? It's pepper, 80 per cent of which is imported from India. . . . No word that we know of from the Porterville Packers. It's time stockholders demanded a meeting and a financial statement. You know it's possible for stockholders themselves to call a meeting if elected directors refuse to do so. . . . Looks like there'll be a lot of changes in the "Official Family" of Porterville. . . . A million dollars worth of snow is being wasted in our own Sierras of Tulare county. People are jamming roads and winter sports facilities all over California, but first you must have the roads and facilities to jam.

The FARM ADVISOR Says . . .

Planting your crops at the right time is a big help to grow a good vegetable garden. A planting calendar for Tulare county is included in the pamphlet, "Your Home Vegetable Garden." This pamphlet is free at the farm advisor's office, Post Office building, Visalia.

The chicken breeds commonly used for fryer production are New Hampshire and New Hampshire crosses. With good feed and breeding it is possible to produce a three and one quarter pound fryer at eleven weeks, using three pounds of feed to produce each pound of chicken.

The new California Common 49 Alfalfa is recommended for hay production in Tulare county. It is resistant to dwarf, the worst alfalfa disease in this area and the major cause of most fields dying out in three or four years.

California rates eleventh in the number of dairy cows in the United States. In production of butterfat California rates fourth, but in the average production per cow of butterfat California is ahead of all states. State experts say that this high production is due mainly to cow testing associations.

4-H clothing members learn about new fabrics, crease resistant fabrics, crease resistant finishes, color-fastness, watching thread, zippers and choice of patterns during spring shopping tours conducted by volunteer 4-H leaders. Local department stores and clerks have been most cooperative in these educational tours.

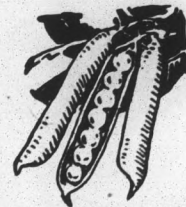

DONALD BAIRD, city engineer and building inspector in Porterville since 1949, will offer his resignation at the March 17 meeting of the Porterville city council so that he can accept a position as superintendent of public works for the city of Petaluma.

EASTER SEAL SALE FUNDS USED FOR THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED

suffering the after effects of polio — wasted arms and legs, bodies that just don't function properly. Special exercises, special instruction in walking, work on the new set of stall bars recently donated by the Tulare County Cowbells, are bringing these children back — back at least to an approach to normal life — back to hope rather than hopelessness for the future.

In addition to training and treatment at the center, patients are also under the care of a private doctor, or are taken to a state and county clinic at Visalia for regular checkups. And any physically handicapped person can receive care and training without cost.

It was in 1947 that the University women started the educational and health program for the physically handicapped. Now many organizations of the community, parents, the elementary school district, doctors, are co-operating. Members of the Porterville Fire department made the first equipment; Charles Chritchlow, elementary woodwork instructor, has made many other pieces of equipment, and much needed material has been donated.

At present 19 patients are being treated; average has been 16 per month. And of course, parents of handicapped children have spent many hours supplementing the work of the center after learning what to do.

Mrs. Farris emphasizes the importance of getting children at the earliest possible moment — the younger the better, for the sooner corrective measures are started, the better the chance of favorable results.

Through the elementary school, the overall program also includes hearing training, auditory training and speech correction, also aimed at giving children the best possible chance in life.

Active in formation of the training center and now trustee for the Crippled Children society in Porterville is Mrs. Frank Hallford; working for the society in the area west of Porterville is Mrs. Fanny Williams, of Cotton Center.

These women are this week calling special public attention to the work that is being done for handicapped children in Porterville in view of the Easter Seal sale of the Tulare County Crippled Children's society, that opens today and continues through April 13, emphasizing the fact that funds derived from this sale go toward operation expense of the Porterville center and other similar projects in the county.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS IS ORGANIZED

Forty-three women from all of Tulare county enrolled as charter members of the newly-formed League of Women Voters Monday, at a meeting held in Visalia, at the College of Sequoias lounge.

In addition to joining, the group approved a set of by-laws, and mapped out a two topic program to be taken up for the coming year.

The study of City Government is the number one topic for study, and the Expansion of World Trade and Economic Development with maximum use of the United Nations, is the second.

Mrs. Harry Dutton spoke on the "Get Out the Vote" program — a service to put voter registration in Visalia at 100%, and told how members of the League of Women Voters may take an active part in it.

Mrs. John Treanor was elected to serve on the board of directors. Guest speaker, Wesley Kottmeier, mayor of Visalia, spoke on municipal government.

Registration

Citizens have until April 10 to register for the June 3 primary election. Persons who did not vote in the last general election, those who have moved since the last general election and persons coming of age must register to be eligible to vote.

New Air Force Base

Parks Air Force base, at Pleasanton, California, has now been opened as the west coast "Gateway to the Air Force," with west coast men now to be sent to this base, rather than to Lackland Air Force base at San Antonio, Texas, for basic training.

Jesse F. Eckles has been named chairman of arrangements for dedication of the Uhl Station youth recreation center, which is being opened this summer by the Porterville Lions club. The dedication program is set for March 30.
